

Conservation and Resilience: What Climate Change is Teaching Us

Mack Lipkin Man and Nature Series Panel Discussion

Join us at the American Museum of Natural History for an engaging public panel discussion!

With panelists:

- Arturo A. Massol-Deyá, Professor, Department of Biology at the University of Puerto Rico; Associate Director, Casa Pueblo
- Erika Svendsen, Research Social Scientist, U.S. Forest Service
- Jennifer Bolstad, Landscape Architect, Educator, and Community Organizer, Local Office
- Walter Meyer, Urban Designer, Local Office

Moderated by Ana Luz Porzecanski, Director, Center for Biodiversity and Conservation, American Museum of Natural History

This event is free and open to the public. Organized as a part of the Student Conference on Conservation Science-New York 2018.

Date:
Thursday, October 25, 2018

Time:
Doors open at 6 pm,
program begins at 6:30 pm

Location:
Kaufmann Theater. Enter at the Museum's 77th street entrance

The Mack Lipkin Man and Nature Series was established in honor of Dr. Mack Lipkin, Sr., by his many friends and admirers. Dr. Lipkin was a physician who was a gentle and powerful force in advancing the most humane and caring practices of medicine. The 2018 panel is presented in collaboration with the Lincoln Institute for Land Policy