

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
opening aerial over Borneo	01:00:17:03	This story is like a fairy tale, except it's entirely true, and we don't know yet how it will end.
map animatic/ARCHIVAL	01:00:36:10	But it begins a long time ago, in a land far away, with not one, but two, real life fairy god mothers. Daphne Sheldrick was born in Kenya, and lived with her family in Tsavo National Park. When poachers killed elephants for their ivory tusks, Daphne adopted their orphaned babies... Halfway around the world, in the jungles of Borneo, Biruté Galdikas, came to study wild orangutans.
TITLE	01:01:52:00	BORN TO BE WILD
(continued)		But as loggers cut down the rainforest and drove orangutans out, Biruté rescued and raised the little ones left behind. Both women made the same promise to the animals in their care. To raise them only as long as they needed help, and to prepare them to one day return to the wild.
ele trunk thru fence slurping	01:02:10:12
young ele pokes at bucket	01:02:27:00	It's been over 50 years since Daphne Sheldrick
Daphne & 2 other keepers, morning check ups	01:02:37:22	first adopted orphaned elephants. She's created a safe haven for them at a very special nursery just outside Nairobi.				Edwin: Come, Sities, come. Daphne: [Swahili – do not translate]...about 3 and a half months...what's the umbilicus like? BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
Keepers open gates for eles	01:03:01:05		These little orphans			BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
2 eles greet Sities	01:03:11:06		have been rescued from all over Kenya. They may look big, but they're just little children. The biggest ones are still babies themselves. They instinctively take care of little Sities, who's just 3 months old.			BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] med eles morning forest stroll C to L	01:03:40:18	Daphne established this nursery after her husband, David, passed away. It's a place for the orphans to heal physically and emotionally.				BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
Edwin & keeper watching over eles	01:03:53:12		The elephants helped me to turn the page in my life and I try to do the same for them.			BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] dist morning forest walk C to L	01:04:05:13		We've rescued over 200 baby elephants. Most have lived but others haven't.	[The forest is full of little graves. Omit for all versions]		BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
Daphne & 3 keepers prep milk	01:04:20:04	Before Daphne, nobody had ever successfully raised an infant elephant.	It took me 28 years of hard work before I finally developed a milk formula that would help them			Daphne: [Swahili – do not translate] BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] keepers & eles milk line up	01:04:39:06		grow up big and strong.			Julius: Ok, Kilaguni, have your milk. BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] keeper encourages Kilaguni to drink	01:04:56:12	Kilaguni is almost two now. His mother was killed by poachers. He stayed by her side and when hyenas came in the night, they attacked him and bit off his tail.				Julius: Ok, [Swahili – do not translate], good boy. BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
CU Kilaguni drinking milk	01:05:15:03	But he's healed and happy now and a favorite of the others.
sunscreen time for eles	01:05:22:11		Without their mothers to provide shade, little elephants need lots of sunscreen so their ears don't get burnt. They're just like our own children... lovable one moment , naughty the next.			Daphne: He doesn't like a noise, eh? He doesn't like the sunblock much either, do you? There we are...there we are. You want nice ears when you grow up, don't you? DO NOT RECORD LAUGHS Edwin: Hello, Sities, have some leaves. Oh! DO NOT RECORD LAUGHS BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] [laughs]

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
est Birute orang care center crane	01:05:45:23	Thousands of miles away in Indonesia, Dr. Biruté Galdikas continues her lifelong effort to save orphaned orangutans. Over 300 of them live here at her Care Center on the island of Borneo.				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
Birute & keepers feeding infant	01:06:12:03	All these orangutans are here for one reason. Their mothers have been killed and their forest home cut down.				Birute: [Dayak - do not translate] BG Keeper: [Dayak - do not translate]
3 dayak women in hut with babies	01:06:31:22	These are the lucky ones who survived.		They are so fragile as infants. Like our own kids, they need lots of love and attention.		Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
Dayak keeper washes baby orang	01:06:57:01			I've studied wild orangutans for 40 years, and we use that		BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
Dayak keeper playing with orang & branch	01:07:10:07			knowledge to simulate the different stages of orangutan development, with humans acting as surrogate mothers.		Keeper: [Dayak - do not translate] BG: [Dayak - do not translate] est orang jungle gym	01:07:24:17	These orangutans are the same age as human toddlers. They're too immature to play in the real jungle, but a jungle gym helps them learn the skills they'll eventually need in the wild.				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] jungle gym, orang climbs up wood post	01:07:51:04					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
2 orangs with green milk bottles	01:08:06:04	Young orangutans still need milk. And lots of it.				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
2 orangs jump into leaf pile	01:08:16:19					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
1 orang with 2 green milk bottles	01:08:27:16					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] orang building nest in jungle gym	01:08:39:07	Orangutans here are under human care,				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] orang flips basket of bananas	01:08:48:05	but not control.				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] orangs playing on rope ladder	01:08:53:08	They need to retain their wildness.				BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
orang kicks green bottle while drinking	01:09:07:02					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] orang drinks from pink washing cup	01:09:16:03					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] orang eats soap off another orang	01:09:26:00					BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] baby orangs in wheelbarrow	01:09:40:20			These orphans grow up so differently than wild orangutans. But as long as they feel loved, they'll have the confidence they need later in life.
2 keepers feeding babies on bench	01:09:59:05			I often wonder if they miss the touch of their real mother, or do they even remember her at all.		BG Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate]
Dayak keeper singing lullaby to baby	01:10:15:09					Keeper: [Dayak lullaby - do not translate]
Kenyan keepers lead eles thru grass	01:10:35:16	Family is the most important part of an elephant's life. They live in herds so it takes a team of people to replace the loved ones that they've lost.				BG Keepers: [Swahili - do not translate]
3 eles run thru grass to meet group	01:10:55:05		People always ask me how we choose the keepers? The truth is, the			BG Keepers: [Swahili - do not translate] eles surround Julius in grass	01:11:10:01		elephants do. They can read your heart and they understand how you genuinely feel about them.			Julius: [laughs] ele rubs trunk on Edwin's head	01:11:21:13		Edwin, our head keeper, loves the elephants. And they love him.
eles in a grassy love pile	01:11:31:20				Edwin : Elephants won't live unless they are happy. We keep them as happy as possible, entertaining them and playing little games.
keeper rolls down in grass with ele	01:11:47:10		When a little elephant starts to play you know they're going win.			Elephant Keeper: [Swahili - do not translate] Sities, come, come Sities.
crane shot keepers leading eles to soccer field	01:12:00:13					Elephant Keeper: Come on come on! [laughs]

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
ele soccer herd left - right	01:12:15:05					Elephant Keeper: Kick the ball, kick it! [Swahili - do not translate] Scooter, kick the ball, good boy! [Swahili - do not translate] ele soccer herd right - left	01:12:25:15					Elephant Keeper: Come on, kick it, kick it! [swahili - do not translate] ele soccer herd towards camera	01:12:32:17					Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] crane shot eles leaving soccer field	01:12:38:12					BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] line of keepers with oranges walk towards camera	01:12:54:02	Orangutans are happiest at play in the jungle.				Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] line of keepers with oranges walk wood boardwalk	01:13:02:20	And this group is now old enough to explore the forest that surrounds the care center. These trees bear the same fruits they'll find in the rainforest. For many, it's their first taste of the wild.				Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] med several oranges swinging in vines	01:13:31:08
orang swings towards camera, settles on log	01:13:51:03				This is Sanaga.
group of oranges find durians in water	01:14:01:14				He knows all the best spots to find fruit, like wild durian, a stinky but delicious treat.
orang climbs tree with durian in mouth	01:14:21:16
orang enjoys his durian doing the splits	01:14:37:19				All orangutans have their own personality.
Ombrey climbs laundry line	01:14:44:08				Ombrey is a real comedian.	Orangutan Keeper: [Dayak - do not translate]
Ombrey wrestles with a sheet	01:14:55:14				I'll never forget Ombrey's rescue.	Bg Keepers: [Dayak - do not translate] aerial over palm oil plantation	01:15:04:00				We drove for hours through a giant palm oil plantation. It was once pristine rainforest and home to Ombrey's mother. She was killed and he was captured and kept as a pet.
Hombre dumps flour in hut	01:15:22:15				But orangutans are not meant to be pets.
Hombre examines jar and basket in hut	01:15:28:02

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
Hombre brings down metal pot lid	01:15:34:01
Birute & hut owner talking	01:15:45:14					Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] Hut owner: [Indonesian – do not translate] BG Keeper: [Indonesian – do not translate]
Hombre jump crashes to floor	01:15:56:08					Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] Hut owner: [Indonesian – do not translate] BG Keeper: [Indonesian – do not translate]
Hombre on Fred's back taken out	01:16:01:22			My son Fred, has a special touch with orangutans.	Fred: Ombrey refused to get in our truck.	BG Keeper: [Indonesian – do not translate] Birute: You're ok, ok.
side Hombre clinging to Fred on motorbike	01:16:10:07				Fred: He had his heart set on another ride.
front Hombre clings to Fred on motorbike	01:16:23:09				Fred: Young orangutans cling to their mothers for dear life. So holding on tight, is in their blood.
back Hombre clings to Fred on motorbike	01:16:30:13
Daphne chats with grandsons	01:16:38:13	At the end of a long day, the elephants return home escorted by Daphne's grandsons.			Taru? Roan?	Daphne: Taru is that?... little Kibo. They're pushing, eh, they're pushing. Taru: I saw a spring hare. It was 2 feet and it had a tail that long. There's lots of springhare burrows. Daphne: A spring hare? Really, what, was it down there? BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
Daphne feeding hyrax	01:17:03:00		I've lived amongst nature my whole life. I've cared for animals as big as elephants and as small as this little hyrax. And I've loved them all the same.			Daphne: Hey, c'mon, a bit more.

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
keepers distribute milk bottles for bed time	01:17:20:22					BG Keepers: [Swahili - do not translate]
Edwin leads Sities into cabin	01:17:27:22	In the wild, baby elephants would never be left alone.				BG Keepers: [Swahili - do not translate]
Edwin gives Sities bedtime milk	01:17:38:10	So here, the keepers always stay with them... even through the night.	Like all new orphans, Sities waking Edwin in cabin	01:17:50:18		Sities has difficulty sleeping. Elephants do have an incredible memory, but sometimes what they remember is awfully sad.
Edwin puts blanket over Sities	01:18:07:06					Edwin: [swahili - do not translate] Good. Sleep well, Sities. boat arrives at Camp Leakey dock	01:18:32:05	Biruté's research station, Camp Leakey, is deep in the jungles of Tanjung Puting National Park,				BG Keepers: [unintelligible - do not translate] unloading supplies on boat dock	01:18:59:12	home to the largest population of wild orangutans left in the world. For 30 years, Biruté lived here and raised orphan orangutans in the surrounding forest. They're wild now,				BG Keepers: [Indonesian - do not translate] Biruté: [Indonesian - do not translate] orang passes man sweeping walkway	01:19:18:22	but sometimes come back to Camp Leakey to visit...It's the only place in the world where humans and great apes are truly equal.				Keeper: [Indonesian do not translate] tilt down Birute walking in long shot	01:19:32:17			I've had this feeling ever since I was very young. The tropical rain forest represents the original Garden of Eden. Our ancestors left the Garden, but orangutans never did. They maintained a childlike innocence that we humans lost orang bends tree over helping him get down	01:19:57:11	Many of the orangutans released here have succeeded in the wild		a long, long time ago.
2 orang mothers with babies hang on vine	01:20:16:11	and are now mothers and grandmothers themselves.
orang mamma gets a kiss	01:20:24:06

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
Tom comes out behind a tree	01:20:31:03	Tom is the dominate male in the area. He weighs over 300 pounds and is the wild- born son of an orangutan Biruté raised 35 years ago.
Birute encourages orang to follow her	01:20:59:01			Like the orangutans, I started my own family at Camp Leakey. Our children played together and grew up together. I came to Borneo looking for animals to study. I never thought I'd find lifelong friends.
Orang and baby on Birute's bench	01:21:20:09
slo-mo gibbon swinging in tree	01:21:37:23
Birute coffee time	01:21:44:15					Birute: Don't steal my coffee. I bet you will (laugh).
orang follows Birute along wood plank	01:21:53:02
Birute noodle time	01:22:06:01
Birute swings orang on vine	01:22:16:18
Birute and orang wrestle to ground	01:22:23:07					Birute: Hi Siswi. Look who's here. Oh so you want to play (laugh).
orang swings around catches vine	01:22:32:20
Birute chatting with orang on dock	01:22:43:16	Both Biruté and Daphne do much more than raise rescued animals.				Birute: Well, I really missed you , Are you going to come with me, Siswi, Well, I'm going. Bye.
aerial plane over Tsavo national park	01:23:08:00	Their organizations help protect the national parks where their orphans will eventually live... Tsavo National Park is home to the largest population of elephants in Kenya.
2 large bull elephants	01:23:26:16 large bull elephant with big tusks	01:23:39:00	The old bulls are the scouts and guardians of the elephant herds. They live apart from the females and their young.
2 keepers watching bulls from truck	01:23:52:04	A patrol has spotted something wrong.				Julius: Hello, hello, Mama Daphne? Daphne: Yes...?

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
est bulls protecting young ele	01:24:00:08	A baby elephant among a group of bulls. His mother has been poached. He needs milk to survive, but they can't feed him. If he's not rescued soon, this little elephant will die.
med keepers with binoculars in truck	01:24:18:02					Daphne: Well, we'll mobilize a rescue team and a plane. We'll be ready in the nursery.
trucks chase away bulls surround young ele	01:24:23:21	The rangers must be bold to drive the bulls off. They can easily flip over a truck... A female herd would defend the baby to the end, but the bulls know he doesn't belong.				Walkie: [swahili - do not translate] group capturing young ele	01:24:49:01					Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] group loading elephant onto plane	01:24:55:17					Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] aerial dirt runway plane takes off	01:25:03:17
truck drives to orphanage	01:25:20:08		Most orphans come in extremely traumatized.
group unloading ele off truck	01:25:30:07		This elephant has seen his family killed by			Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] rescued ele charges fence	01:25:41:00		human beings. So he sees us as the enemy. He's terrified and doesn't understand that we want to help.			Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] rescued ele takes milk in the morning	01:26:03:11	By morning, the new orphan has a name, Kandecha. He's begun to trust the keepers and is finally getting the nourishment he needs to survive.				Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] elephants in muddy love pile	01:26:20:05	He's joined this little family just as Kilaguni is about to say goodbye.				Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] orangs in tree being assessed	01:26:33:15	Orangutans typically leave their mothers Birute and keepers looking up from boardwalk	01:26:41:06	when they're 7 or 8 years old. As the orphans reach that age, single orang backlit hanging still	01:26:46:21	Biruté and her staff identify which ones are ready to thrive on their own.
orang and keeper free climb	01:26:53:16

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
Birute & keepers sitting on boardwalk	01:27:05:19					Keepers: [Indonesian – do not translate] Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] long shot several orangs swinging in vines	01:27:11:23			Wild orangutans don't live in groups. They're solitary so they must take care of themselves.		Keepers: [Indonesian - do not translate]
CU orang swinging swipes at camera	01:27:20:20			Ombrey will be a great wild orangutan one day, but he's still too young.
2 orangs preparing to build nest	01:27:29:13			Sanaga and Pushka are building their own nests. They've become more independent and I feel they no longer need us.
Birute & Popo enter clinic	01:27:44:01	Before being cleared to join the wild population, all orangutans get a thorough check-up.				Dr. Popo: [Indonesian – do not translate] Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] BG: [Indonesian – unintelligible]
Birute & Popo examine orang	01:27:52:13	Sanaga is healthy and ready to go home.				Dr. Popo: [Indonesian – do not translate] Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] keeper lures ele into truck	01:28:11:07	So is Kilaguni. It's graduation day for him and two other elephants. As with many big changes in life, the first step can be the hardest one to take.				Elephant Keeper: [swahili - do not translate] Ok, c'mon baby. keeper locks truck doors	01:28:41:07 aerial boat down river	01:28:45:10
Birute, Fred orangs in boat	01:28:56:08 boat perspective following river	01:29:03:12
aerial eles in edge of water	01:29:16:08
aerial following several trucks	01:29:24:07 aerial over Kenyan mountains	01:29:31:14
orang in boat feeling water	01:29:40:14
truck arrives at Ithumba Tsavo	01:29:45:18

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
keeper lures ele out of truck	01:29:59:18	A remote compound in the middle of Tsavo will be the elephants home for the next few years. It's a halfway house where they'll live until they no longer need human help.				Elephant Keeper: C'mon, Kilaguni. [Swahili – do not translate] C'mon, baby. Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate] Daphne: Kilaguni, hi, did you have a good trip?
keepers lead eles to water well	01:30:27:12	What happens next is truly astounding.				BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] crane shot eles arriving to Ithumba	01:30:43:20	Dozens of ex-orphans, all living wild now, come from many miles away, to greet the babies.				BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] eles gather around water well	01:31:12:01		Elephants have amazing powers of perception and communication. It's one of the great mysteries of the natural world.			BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate] crane shot eles gathering in Ithumba	01:31:33:13	The orphans will always love their human family. But in time, these older elephants will take over and lead them into the elephant kingdom. Kilaguni and the others will be				BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate]
Daphne gives milk at stockade	01:31:57:19	milk dependent for three more years. They're still vulnerable, so they'll sleep here where they'll be safe from the lions outside.				Daphne: Does he get to hold his own bottle? Kilaguni... BG Keepers: [Swahili – do not translate]
Borneo boat with oranges and crew	01:32:11:21	Their journey to freedom takes Sanaga and Pushka deeper and deeper into Tanjung Puting National Park, where one of the last pockets of orangutan habitat still remains.
older orang swings left - right	01:32:36:03
overhead Birute followed by keepers with cage	01:32:51:02			With every step, I feel a flood of mixed emotions. I'm happy but I'm also worried. It's a dangerous world and I won't be there to protect them.
orang swings and bring down tree	01:33:19:02

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
Birute & keepers with cage walk towards camera	01:33:37:05	Their long detour through the human world is about to end.				Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] BG Keepers: [Indonesian – do not translate] cage down, Pushka release	01:33:52:02					Birute: [Indonesian – do not translate] BG Keepers: [Indonesian – do not translate] Birute: Ok, there you go. There you go, Pushka. You can go, c'mon, you can go. That's a good vine, yup.
slo-mo orang exits cage	01:34:17:18
glittering sun thru trees	01:34:33:21
follow orang climbing up tree	01:34:42:07
crane as Birute looks up into trees	01:34:54:04	It's hard to say goodbye, orang climbs to top of skinny tree	01:35:04:02	but this is their destiny. They were born to be wild.
est eles and exorphans at water	01:35:32:07	On their first day in Tsavo the wild ex-orphans lead Kilaguni and his friends to a waterhole where they revel red dust bath left of waterpond	01:35:45:22	in the freedom of a wild life.
bird's eye group ele dust bath	01:35:56:10 herd of eles wade into water	01:36:08:19	The big elephants took this step many years ago. They know that Kilaguni is too young to join them now. They've come to sav...
keepers on right watch ele dust bath	01:36:20:17	You're part of our family You're one of us and we love you.
side view red dust showers	01:36:29:20
group of eles playing at edge of pond	01:36:45:07		Our job is almost done now.
grp of eles leave waterpond	01:37:02:07		It's up to the ex-orphans to teach the little ones how to be wild elephants again.
Siswi wades in the water	01:37:13:05	The animals in this story, are like us in so many ways. They want to grow up free mother orang eats fruit hanging with baby	01:37:45:05	and raise their families in a world that's safe. And if we let them disappear from this Earth... then a part of us will disappear too.

Shot/Description	TC	Narrator	Daphne VO	Biruté VO	Other VO	On camera
eles and keepers walk into valley	01:38:02:05	These orphans have been given a second chance at life. But whether they'll live happily ever after depends on us.				BG Keepers: [swahili - do not translate]
dist herd of eles walk in file/CREDITS	01:38:18:12					